A dynamic jewelry trade event for qualified professionals, featuring a unique mix of education, networking and business

SHOW GUIDE

Polygon
WELCOME TO THE CONCLAVE & TRADE EVENT!

We are thrilled to be hosting the Conclave again this year, and welcoming not only Polygon members but other qualified attendees from the industry. Conclaves are long-standing traditions at Polygon that have been going on since the early 1980’s, and we’re proud to welcome back some of the very same members who attended conclaves in those early years (even some who were at the very first!).

There’s a reason why conclaves have stuck around all of these years: not only are they great for business, but they’re fun. They’re a great mix of education, networking, business and pleasure.

This year, veteran experts from different niches will present seminars on trends in the colored stones market, identifying counterfeit watches, synthetic and CVD diamonds, and sustainability in the jewelry industry.

A big thank you to Stuart Robertson & Çiğdem LÜLE from Gemworld International, Joe Akar from Chronofy, Myriam & Tom Tashey from PGS Labs, and Larry Bock from Hoover & Strong for sharing their time and expertise.

And of course, thank you to all of you for participating, and to our partners and sponsors who are helping to support the event. Without you, we wouldn’t be here! We hope you enjoy the event, and all of the opportunities for learning and business.

Cheers,
Sean Lemire, Director Sales & Operations, POLYGON
Lindsay Watkin, Director Marketing, POLYGON

MARKET TRENDS IN COLORED GEMSTONES

Stuart Robertson, VP & Research Director & Dr. Cigdem Lule, Director of Development Gemworld International

Colored stones can be a significant profit center for retail jewelers. However, to realize this benefit one must be familiar with what’s hot and what’s not in color.

This presentation will look at current gem market trends for 2017. The speakers will discuss classic gem varieties and also some of the more unusual materials being used in jewelry today. They will also touch on issues influencing supply, demand and price for many popular colored stones in the global market.

Here, topics include: how memo helped shorten the supply chain; selling the laboratory report or the gemstone; and the unintended consequences of ethical sourcing in the colored stone trade.

Please join us for discussion of current trends and emerging obstacles in the colored stone market.

In addition to research director, Stuart currently serves as appraiser, lecturer, consultant and author. He is the co-developer of the industry course, Corundum Treatments and Pricing.

AN EXPERT IN ROLEX AND OTHER VINTAGE WATCHES, JOE AKAR WILL LOOK AT HOW TO IDENTIFY COUNTERFEITS IN THE LUXURY WATCH MARKET, AS WELL AS WHAT TRENDS ARE DRIVING THIS MARKET.

A combination of presentation and hands-on, this seminar will show examples and pictures of authentic vs. counterfeit watches.

Additional topics will cover evaluating pre-owned watches, pricing structures, and legalities of aftermarket watches. If you’re buying OTC or doing anything with watches, this is one you won’t want to miss!

SYNTHETIC DIAMONDS ARE A BUZZWORD FOR OUR INDUSTRY.

Are they ubiquitous in the diamond pipeline? What do consumers think about these new products? What tools are effective for detecting these man-made stones? PGS Laboratory breaks down the trends and offers some interesting visuals in a discussion held Saturday. Join us for a presentation and hands-on experience.

ABOUT JOSEPH AKAR

Joseph Akar is a 22 year veteran of the watch industry and one of the most prominent pre-owned watch dealers in the country. Owner of the watch dealer company Accar Ltd., and its subsidiary Bezels for Watches – supplier and manufacturer of diamond bezels – Joe is also the founder and CEO of Chronofy Inc., and the publisher of The Chronofy Watch Guide™, a trade-only, multimedia publication comprising the most comprehensive directory of luxury pre-owned watches and their current market values. Chronofy was created as the result of Joe’s own frustrations over the years in providing accurate valuations on pre-owned watches.

ABOUT TOM & MYRIAM TASHEY

A pioneer in the field of color nomenclature Tom has written extensively on the topic and has been published in numerous peer reviewed industry journals.

A former president of the Midwest chapter of Women’s Jewelry Association, Myriam has tirelessly promoted professional development in the industry. From participating in mentoring programs to teaching courses to the next generation of jewelry professionals, Myriam has been an industry leader through her poise and expertise.

Tom and Myriam Tashey have sat on the board of many groups that advocate on behalf of consistent quality standards. They have also served as expert witnesses on numerous federal and state trials where their testimony was influential in bringing criminals to justice. The notion of service does not stop at the jewelry industry. PGSL staff routinely volunteer their time to charitable causes, and the company has participated in numerous local awareness initiatives, such as ‘GoDoGood’ Chicago.
INCREASINGLY, CONSUMERS WANT TO KNOW THE ORIGINS OF THE METALS AND GEMS IN THE JEWELRY THEY BUY, AND TO BE SURE THAT THEIR JEWELRY WAS MADE IN AN ENVIRONMENTALLY SUSTAINABLE, ETHICAL WAY.

This seminar will review the impact of precious metal mining, the industry’s efforts to create in/out and chain-of-custody standards, as well as outline the questions you need to ask when sourcing materials and how to speak with your customers about the subject. We will also discuss the differences between mined, recycled and fair trade gold and address any questions attendees might have about responsible sourcing.

Integrity, accuracy and consistency depend not just on our processes, but on our commitment to maintaining a facility where the industry's best practices are performed by experienced professionals using today's most precise and reliable equipment.

We've invested in today's best XRF (X-ray fluorescence) machines to determine the approximate value of metals early on. But because the XRF process presents too many variables to provide the consistent and accurate results that meet our exacting standards and deliver the fair value our customers deserve, we still rely on the corrected fire assay process and its centuries-long record of accuracy for final testing.

ABOUT
In 2002, The Trendz was established by Ashok Mehta as a wholesale business in the Diamond District in Los Angeles. With 32 years of experience at the time, he began this new chapter in his career with his wife, Priya, in the realm of diamonds and jewelry. Twelve years later, The Trendz is one of the premier buyers of closeout diamonds and jewelry, helping retail jewelers as well as pawnshops reduce their non-moving jewelry and diamond stock. They buy melee diamonds of all sorts, as well as some big stones, along with gold (14K and up) and diamond jewelry.
